

Landrum Neer

Assistant Conservation Planner

Landrum Neer is an Assistant Conservation Planner in the Rocky Mountain Region. In this role, he oversees the development of mitigation projects in the Rocky Mountain Region area. He is responsible for the planning, execution, and tracking of wetland, stream, and species mitigation project approvals and compliance of mitigation projects. In addition, Landrum assists in the long-term monitoring and management of RMR bank sites.

Prior to joining Westervelt full-time, Mr. Neer worked as a temporary employee in the Rocky Mountain Region office where he assisted with monitoring project sites and land acquisition efforts in the Nebraska Rainwater Basin.
